Dear Concerned Catholic,

Trinity Communications is a non-profit organization that takes the business aspects of its operations seriously. We have a very exciting, and successful, mission! However, responsibility to both our benefactors and our users drives us to create lean project budgets that have the most mission impact at the lowest dollar impact to the wallets of our supporters.

CatholicCulture.org provides information, encouragement, and perspective to truth seekers. Your donation dollar is not a contribution to the staff of Trinity Communications, but rather a contribution to a growing group of millions of unique individuals worldwide who turn to us for the Truth. You will be helping to enrich faith, strengthen the Church, and form Catholic culture.

Please take a moment to read the content provided in the subsequent pages of this digital document. You will read about the mission of CatholicCulture.org, how the mission is accomplished, whom the mission reaches, program leadership, and a brief overview of our budget.

We are also in need of major donors to help with special projects and long-term development! Your contribution, as part of a winning team of donors, will fill out a responsible revenue model and will benefit many in need of Truth. Please consider Becoming a Key Donor by helping to create our Challenge Grants.

All supporters of the CatholicCulture.org project are the lifeblood of our organization. Please be assured of our immense gratitude for your support, both financial and spiritual, as we continue to bring the Truth to millions and build a Catholic culture.

Regards,

Jeffrey A. Mirus, President
Testimony from CatholicCulture.org Users

“As a priest with the Fathers of Mercy, I work as the vocation director and student master for the community, and do a little preaching, too! I love the articles / analysis on Catholic Culture by Mirus and Lawler, because they are balanced according to the view of Holy Mother the Church. This is very useful for preaching parish missions, and I frequently direct people who ask for reliable Catholic websites to the Catholic Culture website.”

— Fr. Anthony Stephens, CFM, South Union, KY

“I'm a Benedictine monk who lives, prays, and works at St. Mary's Abbey in Morristown, NJ. I check CatholicCulture.org every day for news and articles about what's going on in the Church, not just in the United States but around the world. I appreciate CatholicCulture.org's devotion to (authentic) Catholicism and its great love of the Church.”

— Br. Liam Mullin, OSB, Morristown, NJ

“I am an Australian Sister working in the Limpopo province of South Africa in rural areas... I have been with [CatholicCulture.org] from the first. I regret that I am not in a position to support you financially, but I do pray that you will have the health and strength to continue the work of spreading the Good News all over the earth and that the Holy Spirit will continue to guide your hearts and minds in all that you do.”

— Sr. Jane Dalton, Limpapo, South Africa

“As a Catholic convert and stay-at-home mother of five, I value CatholicCulture.org because of its complete harmony with Church teaching. I know I can trust what I find here. And one thing I use most often is the site review section. When I’m in doubt, I come here and get a good rundown of the site I'm looking for.”

— Jennifer Gainer, Patrick Air Force Base, FL

Our Mission

The mission of CatholicCulture.org is to give faithful Catholics the information, encouragement, and perspective they need to become an active force for renewal in the Church and in society, working to shape an authentically Christian culture in a secular world.

How We Accomplish Our Mission

The primary means of accomplishing our mission is the distribution of news, commentary, and spiritual resources, through both writing and podcasting, in conformity with the mind of the Church.

This material helps readers cope with the full range of spiritual, moral, political, social, cultural, and ecclesiastical challenges with which sincere Catholics must daily contend in every aspect of their lives—including the family, the inner life of the Church, education, the workplace, public policy, and the interplay between faith and culture.

Effectiveness: Whom We Reach

CatholicCulture.org is one of the most visited faithful, independent Catholic websites. During 2022, some five million users visited the site, and millions more benefited from wider circulation of our material in blogs, other websites, newsletters, parish bulletins, radio, TV, podcasting services, and social media.

Web visits came from 237 countries around the world. The top ten, in descending order, were the United States, the Philippines, the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, India, Nigeria, Ireland, South Africa, and Singapore. Large numbers of visitors also came from Italy, Kenya, France, and New Zealand. CatholicCulture.org is by far the most-visited Catholic website with a news service in the world!

Effectiveness: Cost

The impact created by CatholicCulture.org dwarfs that of newspapers, magazines, and most web operations at a fraction of the cost. In fact, it costs us about 3 cents for each person served. Support for our mission is cost-effective!
Program Leadership

Jeff Mirus, Ph.D. (President, Trinity Communications) has been a leader in Catholic education and the dissemination of Catholic information for more than 45 years. After cofounding Christendom College and founding the Christendom Press in 1977, he went on to establish Trinity Communications in 1985. In the early years, Trinity was a publisher and distributor of Catholic books, but in the early 1990’s, Mirus reinvented Trinity on the Internet and ultimately on the web, pioneering Catholic online services. He has been writing on Catholic issues since the age of 18.

Phil Lawler (Director, Catholic World News) has been a Catholic news editor and journalist for more than 40 years. He has worked in politics and has written eight books. He has been Director of Studies for the Heritage Foundation, a member of two presidential inaugural committees, and a candidate for the US Senate. He has also acted as editor of Crisis Magazine, The Pilot, and Catholic World Report, and is the founder and editor of our Catholic World News (CWN)—the first online Catholic news service. Phil also heads the Center for the Restoration of Christian Culture at Thomas More College.

Thomas Mirus (Director, Trinity Communications) is a podcaster and writer based in New York City. Director of Podasting for CatholicCulture.org, Thomas also hosts the Catholic Culture Podcast. Widely read in philosophy, theology, economics, politics, Catholic affairs, the visual arts and music, he has a special interest in the nature of the creative process and the arts, particularly music. He focuses at CatholicCulture.org on the way of beauty, ensuring that our mission includes attention to art and culture as formative of the human person in seeking and being touched by God.
2022 Budget

Trinity Communications relies almost exclusively on user support. Our 2022 budget was very lean, though it has grown since 2019 with the addition of Podcasting. As hostility to both Christianity and the natural law increases around the world, enriching faith, strengthening the Church and forming Catholic culture will be even more critical in the future than it is today!

2023 Budget Projection

Trinity Communications was within $1,000 of a balanced budget in 2022, and we expect a balanced budget in 2023, as we have largely completed a five-year transition to new leadership, enhancing staff so that the next generation can take over the direction of CatholicCulture.org during the course of 2023. It remains the case that no staff member earns a full-time salary, and all work from their homes to minimize expenses.

Budget Notes

• Users familiar with the budgets of other major Catholic internet apostolates, as made known through their fund-raising campaigns, will notice that the Trinity Communications budget is remarkably small in proportion to the services provided.
• Trinity Communications does not incur costs for rent and utilities because it utilizes home offices.
• No staff member draws a full-time salary. In all, we have eleven regular part-time staff working in writing, podcasting, programming, design, acquisition and resource management, customer service, financial tracking, and editorial services. Some professional services (e.g., web hosting) are efficiently outsourced to independent contractors.
• In 2022, Trinity Communications was completely supported by donations from the men and women worldwide who actually use our resources.
• Figures are rounded, for convenience.
